The Junior Epworth League will serve ice cream, strawberries, etc., in the basement of the M. E. Church Friday evening, July 8. Everybody invited.

Coy Brothers, who have the contract to build the macadam road from Herbert's Corners to the so-called beech tree corner, will complete the work within two weeks.

The plate glass windows in the front of M. J. Neff's meat market broken some weeks since by the building settling and an accident have been replaced with new ones.

Albert Bradley was given a surprise party Tuesday in honor of his 65th birthday. The affair was planned by his wife and quite a company of friends enjoyed the occasion.

Telephone lines from the local exchange are to be extended as far as the residence of J. S. Harding in Ellsworth township and to J. A. Kline's residence in the southeastern part of this township. Men are now at work setting the poles.

Fireworks and noise makers of nearly every description displayed in several store windows indicate that Canfield will have an old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration. But it will probably be the last as the "safe and sane" Fourth notion has become quite general.

The casing in the oil well on J. E. Neff's farm, east of the village, has been drawn and the well will be drilled deeper. It is believed that the well will produce from five to ten barrels of oil a day. The oil is of the best lubricating quality and worth in crude state about $2.25 per barrel.

Judge Disney Rogers has not yet rendered a decision in the injunction case of citizens against the National Mausoleum Co. The action was put over to prevent if possible the erection of a mausoleum in the front part of the village cemetery. After the hearing early last week Judge Rogers reserved his decision.

While E. H. Beardsley of this township was unloading his team Tuesday evening one of the animals kicked him on the right thigh. The horse was sharp shod and the shoe cut a gash six inches wide clear to the bone. The injury is a very painful one and will confine Mr. Beardsley to the house for some time.

On the Canfield-Boardman road, a short distance east of the Gabriel Kline residence now occupied by Fred Bohn, is a tree that is quite a curiosity. In reality it is two trees, one an elm and the other a wild cherry, but so closely have they grown together and so symmetrical is the trunk that it is necessary to make careful observation to discover the two trees.

Council met Monday night when the ordinance granting a natural gas franchise to M. J. Brown and Mr. Greenwalt of Youngstown was discussed at considerable length and finally passed under suspension of the rules. It provides for a rate not to exceed 33 cents per thousand feet, which with a discount of 10 per cent makes the net cost 30c. The gentlemen to whom the franchise was granted have thirty days in which to accept same. The ordinance passed under suspension of the rules is published in another column of today's Dispatch.

As Mr. Zimmerman, a traveling salesman from Cleveland, got into his carriage at F. A. Morris' drug store, Monday noon, the horse started off before he could gather up the reins. In less than thirty seconds the carriage was overturned near the street crossing and Mr. Zimmerman was thrown out. The horse started up Broad street dragging the buggy on its side and top. The animal was caught near the Neff Co. store before much damage was done to the vehicle. Mr. Zimmerman was considerably bruised. The rig belonged to a Mineral Ridge liveryman.

Rufus Smith died Monday evening at 7 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hull on West Main street. Mr. Smith came here from Milton township about fifteen months ago. He had been stricken with paralysis, his legs and speech being much affected. However, he was able to get out nearly every day until about three months since, when other illness overtook him, putting him indoors. He suffered from heart trouble to such extent that he was unable to lie down in bed. Late in the evening of Monday he was taken to the hospital. About 1 o'clock Monday morning Mr. Hull was startled by the cries of Mr. Smith in the back yard. Going out he found that the man had attempted suicide by cutting three gashes in his throat with a razor. Dr. Campbell was summoned and placed more than fifty stitches in the gaping wounds. When Mr. Smith first came to Mr. Hull's it was known he had a razor but it was thought he had given it away. Deceased was 58 years of age and until stricken with paralysis was engaged in farming. He is survived by three sisters and three brothers. The remains were taken to the North Berlin church Wednesday morning where funeral services, conducted by Rev. James Kahl, were held at 10 o'clock. Interment was made in the Eckle cemetery in Milton township.

The oil well at Calla was drilled through the Berca sand Wednesday night but so oil was found. The well is near the railroad station and was put down 690 feet. Men experienced in the business believe the well should be drilled to the Homeworth sand which could be reached by going 40 feet deeper. This test well was put down by a company organized by L. D. Thurston, who came here early in the year from near Lima, Allen county. He secured leases on considerable territory in Calla and vicinity. Stock was sold at $25 a share. It was stated Thursday that those interested might arrange to have the well drilled deeper. Mr. Thurston left early Thursday morning for his home in Allen county.

Claim Right-of-Way Holdup.

The following from a recent issue of the Youngstown Vindicator probably refers to a trolley line projected some years ago by gentlemen interested in the building of a road known here of the alleged hold-up for right-of-way. The original survey was along the Canfield-Boardman-Poland highway.

That an interurban trolley line has not been built between Poland and Canfield is due to the fact that several land-owners along the right-of-way are asking exorbitant figures for their land. A company, known as the Poland, Boardman & Canfield Railway company and capitalized in the sum of $100,000, has been in existence for some time, but the building of the road has been held up. The company is headed by men who are interested in the Youngstown & Southern Railway company. The project to connect Canfield and Poland via Boardman is not regarded by them as a paying proposition, owing to the smallness of the terminal; yet it is thought that upon the investment of a nominal capital a small though a paying rate of interest can be derived. If the road ever is built it will be for the purpose of benefiting the community, rather than as a scheme for money-getting by the company. The highest return possible will be a very little in advance of bank interest. Yet, despite the unfavorable outlook, the company would see ahead in the building of the road, providing right-of-way could be secured at a reasonable figure.

Residents of Poland, Canfield, Boardman and other points along the proposed road are reported as being anxious for the plant to materialize, owing to the personal convenience that would result therefrom, and also on account of the increase in property values. Some of them approached, however, on the question of taking stock, are found to be unwilling. The situation appears to be that they do not want the road bad enough to help pay for it.

The company expects to continue its organization in the hope that it will eventually be able to accomplish its end. At several meetings the advisability has been discussed of extending the plans to include New Berlin, Piquette and Piquette, joining them to the Poland terminal.

Fire Protection for Infirmary.

The county infirmary will soon be provided with adequate fire protection and the county commissioners will spend several thousand dollars to make the system complete. Since the fire a few months ago, in which several inmates lost their lives, the commissioners have had in mind some arrangements that would allow of a small fire department being maintained on the grounds and within two weeks these arrangements will be completed. The commissioners have purchased a Worthington pump which is operated by steam and has power enough to throw a stream of water with much force. A lake on the grounds, recently enlarged, will afford all the water necessary.

Twelve hydrants will be installed, covering the grounds at all points where buildings are situated. It is further planned to organize a department among the inmates. Hose and all other necessities will be furnished to make the fire protection first-class.

My drug store will be closed all day July 4. F. A. Morris.

PERRY DAVIS' PAINKILLER cures the pain and inflammation from bee stings and mosquito bites. 25c, 50c and $1.00 bottles.

My drug store will be closed all day July 4. F. A. Morris.

The Secretary's Perquisite.

"The hour is over, but I have the minutes left," said the secretary, as he left the meeting.—Cornell Widow.

ROAD and FARM IMPROVEMENT

FARM NOTES.

Any farmer can make his farm a model with time, planning and work. Getting along with anything that will do is not making the most of conditions.

With corn, as with animals, do not forever be muzzling and muzzling breeds. By fertilization, cultivation and selection, try to improve the breed, and seed corn to sell.

It is best to manure corn ground in the winter and plow or disk it under in the spring.

Every beekeeper needs one or more books on bee culture, dealing with the keeping of bees.

Farmers in general now are building in a more substantial way. The use of concrete is responsible for a part of it.

New corn as part ration is good for horses doing farm work, and it is excellent for fattening beef cattle.

Corn should not be planted on sod which was broken up this spring. The first time until late in the season.

The barn set on a concrete foundation looks substantial, and it is so, and will last longer than the one set on wooden posts or blocks.

As soon as the corn plants are tall enough so the driver can see the rows, go into the field with a disk cultivator and disk the ground twice.

On a hard and shallow soil white clover does not ordinarily last more than two years, but on the richer and moister lands it will grow for many years without reseeded.

Many farmers are so intent on making money for the money's sake that they take no thought of the great possibilities of perfect living in the country.

Alfalfa is so unlike any other forage crop that it requires method of curing altogether different from that used in curing timothy, clover or any other meadow grasses.

A prolific queen bee will during her life lay 1,600,000 eggs, each one-fourteenth of an inch long. Put together they would make a chain 13.4 miles long.

Bees are worth all the trouble they require to fertilize the stigmas of the flowers in your orchard. The yield of honey is clear profit.

The great farm crop now is, not more land, but more fertile land. And the only solution in successful future farming is in the increased fertility of the soil. It must be made more fertile; future human food supply depends upon it.

ROADS NEEDED BY FARMERS

Those Leading From Farm to Railroad Station and to School House Most Essential.

(By HOWARD H. GROSS.)

We are constantly seeing exploited in the newspapers schemes of road-building that ought to be condemned rather than favored. One wildly extravagant enthusiast urged the building of a boulevard 200 feet wide from New York to San Francisco; another a great macadamized highway, connecting all the state capitals. In Iowa at this writing there is a great deal of enthusiasm over a road from river to river, not a first-class permanent road, but earth roads improved as much as may be by dragging. A Lincoln memorial road has been proposed from Chicago to Springfield. The above are not the highways that the people need or the roads that should be built. Why should we tax ourselves to build a speedway from the Atlantic to the Pacific? Or who would travel from state capital to state capital over a highway? The roads that are needed, and the ones that we should address our efforts to get are those that lead from the railway station to the farm home, over which the food products of the world pass to reach the market, the doctor to relieve the suffering, the children to go to school. These will in due course be connected up and give us a network of good roads throughout the land. These roads will increase property values, make country life better worth the living, add to our joys and diminish our sorrows, and help to make the farm home so attractive the boy and the girl will not be eager to leave it. It will make the township central school possible, whereby the boys and the girls can get a high school education and live at home. These considerations are fundamental and far-reaching, and well worthy our effort. The writer has no objection to automobiles nor does he question their right to use the highways; but the larger interest of the whole people is not best served by building speedways for joy rides.

Profit in Phosphorus.

The Ohio experiment station on an average of 13 crops of corn, 13 crops of oats and 12 crops of wheat finds that every dollar invested in phosphorus paid back $4.60 while neither nitrogen or potassium paid for its cost. Rock phosphate used with manure paid back $5.68.

Buckwheat Crop.

The buckwheat crop last year amounted to nearly 18,000,000 bushels, the average being 19.8 bushels per acre. The total value of buckwheat cakes consumed was estimated at about $15,000,000.

Tot Missed Something.

Two bachelor girls had set up a cozy and attractive apartment for themselves, and after all was complete they invited a four-year-old tot to come in and pass judgment upon the same. Little Annie felt there was something lacking in the arrangements of the new household, for she tripped up to the young ladies and earnestly inquired: "Where is the father?"

LESSONS OF THE TELEPHONE

As Taught to an Apartment House Hallboy and a Quick-Tempered Man.

"One thing the telephone has taught me," said a quick-tempered man, "is patience and I think I may say courtesy, and I don't doubt that in that way, quite apart from its actual usefulness, the telephone has been a world-wide benefactor. I used to fume and storm when using it, but now I keep calm. I've been fairly worn down or rather ironed smooth by the exchange operator's cool, insistent tranquillity. In the face of that I'm ashamed to rage and I don't any more at the telephone, but the really great thing about this is the influence it has exerted upon me in other directions. Compelled to be calm at the telephone, I find myself more and more inclined to keep cool away from it, less inclined to fly off the handle, more likely in all situations to keep my head on and to be patient and courteous."

"I suppose," said an apartment house hallboy who had been chided for his slowness in answering the telephone, "I suppose I must have got in wrong. I'll tell you about the first call I ever answered when I got my first job. I was coming down from the top floor with the elevator when I heard the telephone bell on the ground floor begin to ring; and it kept on ringing and ringing until I thought the house must be afire or that the baby had fallen out of the window. When the elevator hit the ground floor I lunged back the door, jumped for the switchboard and slammed in the plug on the ringing number and put the receiver to my ear, and what do you suppose I got?"

"William," came down in a slow and easy drawl, "what time is it?"

"That, you know, coming so at the start, didn't give me a very lofty idea of telephone calls' importance, and I'm afraid I've been a little slow in answering ever since."

Nothing in it.

"I don't believe there's anything in what the joke papers say. 'What's the matter?' 'My daughter's been a stenographer four years now, and her boss hasn't asked her to marry him yet.'"
